Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 07 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold today, turning warmer overnight and tomorrow. Mostly dry.

Today:
A cold and cloudy day, but dry for most, with only the odd scattered shower throughout the day. Still cold but slightly warmer than yesterday. Winds easing compared to yesterday, turning to a chill breeze. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:
A cold start tonight with clear skies in the east. Cloud and warmer air moving in resulting in temperatures rising by dawn with rain in the north and west. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Thursday:
Early rain easing to scattered showers and drizzle. Cloudy to start for most, with sunny spells likely later. Warmer than the last few days. Winds picking up, especially north. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Turning cold or very cold again for the next three days, with overnight frost possible. Friday a band of rain moving southwards through the day, but the weekend largely dry.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.